

Autism Rising Cases

The Centre for Disease Control & Prevention released a new report that 1 in every 70 boys in the US is affected by autism.

"1 in 70. Just moments ago, the Centers for Disease Control & Prevention (CDC) released a new report. It states that 1 in every 70 boys in the US is affected by autism -- and 1 in every 110 children has autism spectrum disease. As a part of our community, this breaking news probably won't shock you -- but it's shocking the rest of the country. Millions of people are watching the news and paying attention to autism right now for the very first time."
